

Better Jobs and Futures for Agricultural Workers

Helping Agricultural Worker Families

MET staff are completely dedicated to your success. We understand that helping some individuals reach their goals requires a broad approach. MET can assist you and your family with many of your personal and job-related needs.

Dependents of qualified farm, ranch, and agricultural workers are also eligible for MET's training program, as well as other services.

Some of the services that our clients and family members receive include:

- agricultural skill upgrades
- job training (on-the-job and classroom)
- career placement
- special skills training
- computer technology programs
- GED and ESL classes
- educational assistance
- housing and emergency lodging services
- supportive services
- counseling
- assistance with relocation for a new job

MET can help you and your family members prepare for promising upgraded agricultural careers or opportunities outside of farm, ranch, and agricultural work.

MET's agricultural worker services are funded by the National Farmworker Jobs Program, Workforce Innovation & Opportunity Act, U.S. Department of Labor.
